

Over the past couple of weeks whilst the sun has been shining and the world is in semi lockdown, at insight6 we have been gathering our thoughts together on how we can help our clients with the next stage of the lifting of the lockdown and getting back closer to normal.

From the team and the leader's surveys we have been conducting with clients over the last two months we have learnt lots about the experience of running a business and being part of a team in a global pandemic.

We know that you, as leaders are worried about how your team members are feeling about the safety of their workplace in the post lockdown world, and how anxious they might feel when asked to return to work, or for those already working, how their feelings of safety might change as more of their colleagues re-enter the workplace?

To help, and to enable a successful and sustainable return to trading, we have created a "COVID-19 Stay Safe Team Checker". The Team checker feedback system automates the 'checking in' of your team members about their concerns, freeing up management time to invest in helping those who need help and running the business. The system will send an instant, real time notification to a nominated leader in your business, so if a team member is worried about their safety whilst at work, it will trigger a dialogue between the leader and your team members who need more support and reassurance to sustain their happy return to work.

It is important to stress this is not a survey system but 'Live Data Capture' with instantaneous analysis.

We can have you up and running within 48 hours on the 'Stay Safe Team Checker' and requires an investment starting from £150 + VAT for three months of system access and full support with launching to your team.
